

ABSTRACT

A system of and method for cooling a backup power system upon or after the occurrence of a power outage or reduction condition is provided. Upon or after the occurrence of the power outage or reduction condition, the backup power system powers
5 the cooling system. The cooling system, in turn, cools the backup power system and a substantially enclosed space.